

PBI donation form

PBI has been working to support human rights and promote nonviolence for over 30 years. We send teams of international observers to areas of conflict and repression to provide protective accompaniment to local human rights defenders whose lives and work are under threat.

Our work is based on principles of non-partisanship and non-interference, and on the belief that lasting transformation of violent conflict cannot be imposed from outside but must be based on the capacity of local people to build a genuine peace. We act only at the express request of local people and it is they who determine where our assistance is most needed.

PBI UK is one of 16 country groups around Europe, North America and the Pacific. We build political support networks, recruit and train volunteers and carry out fundraising and publicity work, supporting the work of PBI's field projects on the ground in Colombia, Mexico, Nepal and Guatemala.
