

For 28 years, Peace Brigades International (PBI) has been sending highly trained teams of human rights observers into areas of conflict. These dedicated volunteers serve as unarmed bodyguards to protect courageous communities, organizations, and individuals threatened by political violence in Colombia, Guatemala, Indonesia, Mexico and Nepal. PBI has successfully protected the lives of thousands of human rights defenders across the globe.

Volunteer Orientation

September 19, 2009

PBI-USA's upcoming orientation is designed for individuals interested in volunteering with one of our field projects. Others with a general interest in PBI are also strongly encouraged to attend. The program will be an introduction to PBI's work and philosophy, an overview of our field projects, and a sharing of personal experiences by former field volunteers.

Cost: $30 payable by check alongside registration form.
