

Defending Human Rights through Non-Violent Activism: Saving Lives and Promoting Peace

With an update on Peace Brigades International in Nepal

Learn about...

- The critical work of Peace Brigades International
- Using creative non-violence to defend human rights
- Nepal's human rights' issues and organizations
- Field Volunteer opportunities and other ways to help!

Peace Brigades

International (PBI)

is an international non-profit organization promoting nonviolence and defending human rights since 1981. We provide protective accompaniment and peace education to empower human rights defenders around the world.

For more info,
please visit:

www.pbiousa.org

Date: Thursday, January 22, 2009

Time: 7:00-9:00PM

Location: Ann Tiffany's Home

(Peace Council Member and PBI supporter)

340 Midland Avenue, Syracuse, NY

Join: Krystal Mason, PBI-Nepal Field Officer &
Katherine Hughes-Fraitekh, PBI-USA Executive Director for an intimate discussion among activists and supporters

For more information call or email Ann Tiffany at:

315-478-4571 or anntiffany@verizon.net.

"They Bring the Courage....We Supply the Hope!"